

Oasis In the City

New York is soon to have something new in the way of parks — set in the heart of Manhattan but shut off from the noise and bustle of the city. Pioneering a new concept in utilizing small areas as quiet, green oases in crowded cities, the park will occupy only 42,000 square feet on the site of a once famed night spot, the Stark Club, now closed and to be demolished. Locust trees will provide a foliage canopy. Side walls of gently rounded concrete arches set with brick and occasional mirrored paneling will shut out the city while contributing a sense of spaciousness. Scale model view at top shows the park from the 53d Street entrance. A waterfall, bottom, fronting the rear will replace traffic noises with a pleasant, relaxing sound background. The park, being built and donated to the city by William S. Paley, Columbia Broadcasting System's board chairman, will be named Samuel Paley Plaza in honor of his father.

DEAR POLLY—To save money and have more light, use a 100-watt bulb rather than four 25-watt bulbs. The 100-watt bulb costs very little more than the other four would and gives 50 per cent more light.—I. E. G.

DEAR POLLY—I have taken a hint from the manufacturers of better clothing and when I make something for myself or for my children, I sew an extra matching button inside the garment in an inconspicuous spot. It is always at hand for replacing a lost one.

I save the cardboard that come back from the laundry in the men's shirts and use them as dividers in my young son's closet. They separate the dress clothes, school clothes, play things and out of season garments.

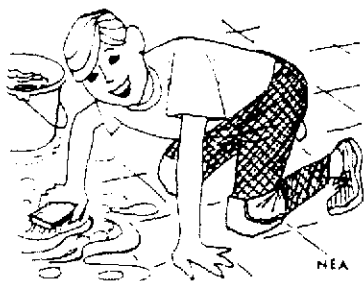

I find a small plastic pail makes a perfect clothespin holder for out-of-doors. I put the handle over the line and at the end of the day use an 8-inch cake pan for a cover and leave the pail on the line ready for the next wash.—MRS. E. F. M.

DEAR POLLY—To remove plastic wrap which has been accidentally dropped on any hot surface, such as the oven door or electric iron, just let the appliance get hot enough to melt the plastic completely. While it is still melted and the appliance still hot, wipe it off with a THICK cloth. Wipes off as easily as water.—FLOSSIE

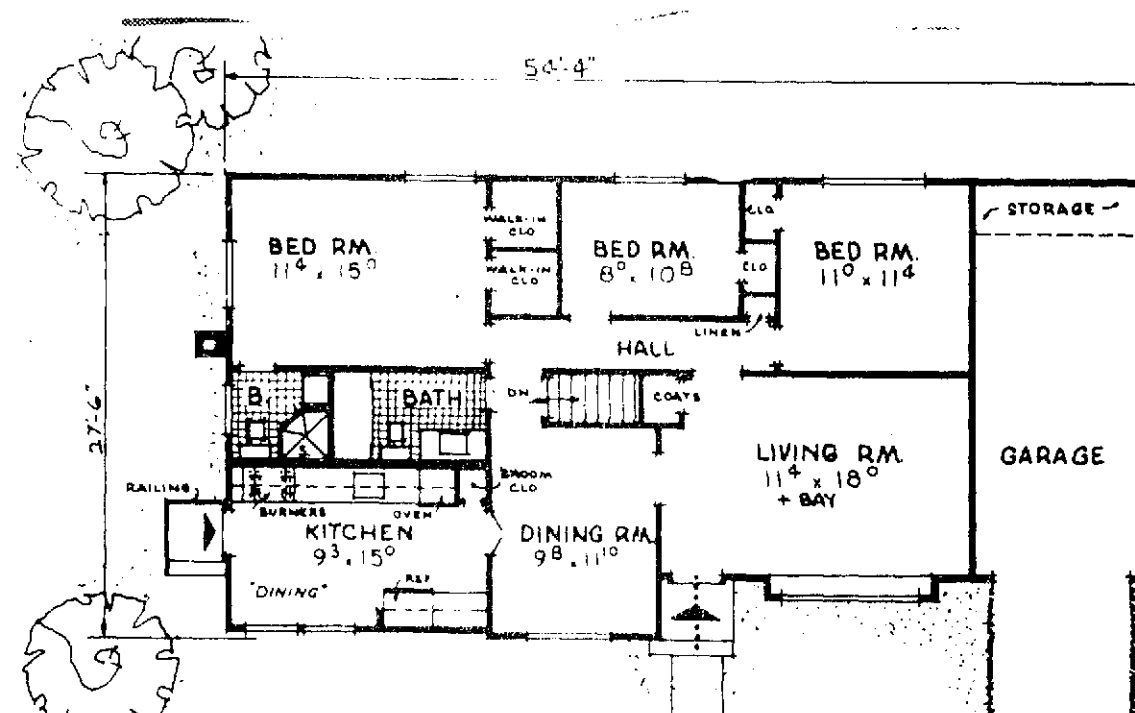

DEAR POLLY—Please tell me what to use for washing plastic-coated, washable, fabric-like wall coverings.—HELEN

GIRLS—A firm selling such wall covering tells us they recommend using either ammonia water or mild detergent suds.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I am a 14-year-old boy, but I have a tip for the women readers. My mother is sick and I was washing the floors for her. Before I finished the first floor I put on my basketball knee pads. What a relief! Those who do not have a son might find it worthwhile to buy a pair at a sporting goods store. They move right along with you and you finish the job in less time and with no sore knees.—A. E. M.

Star? Fine—But Oh That Cash!

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Michael Caine

On the strength of one picture — "The Ipcress File" — Michael Caine has become a star. And there are several people who are delighted by this development. One is Michael Caine. The others are all haberdashers.

Most actors, when they first become stars—a class which should be known as nouveau étoile—profess that they enjoy stardom because of the better parts they get. But the money they are making? Immaterial.

Not Michael Caine. Oh, he likes the better parts fine, but he admits that he's overjoyed at making the large loot.

"I love money," he says. "I love the security money gives you. I have to pay tremendous taxes, of course, but I still wind up with more money than I ever had before, and it's wonderful."

MICHAEL CAINE IS A POOR BOY who's made it. London-born, his father was a porter in the Billingsgate fish market. His mother was what he calls an "office cleaner."

Perhaps because of that background, most of Caine's beautiful new money is going for security, so he'll never be poor again. He's invested heavily. But, he admits to a few "silly, stupid extravagances."

"When I was poor," he says, "I always had to try and make my shirts, my underwear, my socks, do for one more day. Now I change them all twice a day. And, as soon as anything shows the slightest sign of wear, out it goes."

He thinks he has "somewhere around 100" of all those things—shirts, underwear, socks.

Another of his extravagances is books. Before the lovely lightning struck, he used the public library extensively. Now he buys any book that attracts him.

ASIDE FROM THESE SURFACE SIGNS of success, Michael Caine thinks he's the same man he was before "The Ipcress File." And he's somewhat amused at all this talk of him being an overnight success.

THIS GROWING-UP BUSINESS

A home-delivery newspaper route is a "growing up business" unlike any other. It alone provides a youngster with an opportunity to put muscle into what he is taught in school, by putting him in a part-time business where he buys at wholesale and sells at retail; serves all kinds of people; keeps his own records; makes his own collections; and discovers the rewards of salesmanship.

Here he learns, before his parents, the importance of responsibility, self-reliance, punctuality and courtesy, and adopts right attitudes about what will be essential to his future success.

Encouraged by parents who realize the many benefits which come from route management, and by men who are interested in and trained to work with boys, he will some day look back on his newspaper route experience and say "This was when I really started growing up."

If you have a son or daughter, a youngster who might similarly profit by having newspaper route experience, phone or write to our Circulation Department.

Teen-Agers Are Hair Care Buffs

by Alicia Hart
Beauty Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Teen behavior is confusing. The young woman who refuses to put one foot after the other to walk to school proves a real do-it-yourself buff when it comes to her hair care.

She spends more time shampooing and setting her hair than her mother does and also began to select her own hair care products when 11 or 12 years old. A report of a teen publication survey shows young women from age 11 and up use five times more of hair care products than their mothers do.

Various teen surveys in the last year show how personalized their hair care is. It isn't beauty salon-a-go-go for them. Only four per cent reported going regularly. Yet their concern over well-groomed topknots comes through when slightly more than 85 per cent said they worry about hair problems. And to take care of such woes as oiliness and dandruff more than half shampoo their hair twice a week.

The street corner observer may lift his eyebrows slightly when hearing a close look at the hair aping the styles of such leaders of song as Sonny and Cher or Bob Dylan.

Yet almost 60 per cent of the young women replying to the teen magazine questions said they used special rinses and about 44 per cent admitted to brushing up the hair and with temperature color. One teen publication's survey revealed that 44 per cent of young ladies 13 to 14 years old said they were trying hair coloring for the first time.

or doesn't. This desire to flip the pages of the calendar too fast through use of make-up and contrived hairdo's concerns some responsible members of the hair and cosmetics trade. These encourage a young woman to take advantage of the special freshness and youthfulness.

The hair should be especially soft, like a girl's hair, a teen-age customer from her time through use of make-up and contrived hairdo's concerns some responsible members of the hair and cosmetics trade. These encourage a young woman to take advantage of the special freshness and youthfulness.

They urge the use of cosmetics with a very light hand. Work for the natural look and avoid the hazards of the dye.

Shampoo-in hair lighteners such as one that is a mild oil lighter work well on virgin hair that hasn't been colored or lightened before.

It brightens blond hair, gives red and gold accents to brown hair and warms red hair. With rinses just a few months away, the high school girl may want to pep up her weary locks with such a lighter that does not strip color from the roots to tip of her hair.

Highlighting is the key to any good hair coloring job and a teen-ager will find highlighted, not dyed, or bleached, hair complements her best.

Defense in Try to Shake Testimony

By ARTHUR EVERETT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Defense lawyers for Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, are striving to shake the testimony of state witnesses against the couple. Much heat and some fury is being generated in the process.

A legal outburst Tuesday abruptly shortened the court day and sent a defense witness, Nathaniel Allen, to an anteroom weeping.

Allen, a tall Negro with mustache and sideburns, was comforted by Powers and Mrs. Mossler, who are on trial for their lives in the 1964 slaying of the 69-year-old multimillionaire husband, Jacques.

Allen once worked for the Mosslers and Mrs. Mossler assured him as he retreated from the courtroom, "We know you wouldn't do anything to hurt us."

"He's scared to death," the blonde Mrs. Mossler said. Allen took the witness stand in a defense effort to discredit the testimony of Edward Bart Diehl, a carnival worker with a police record of at least a dozen convictions.

Diehl had claimed Powers offered him $5,000 to $10,000 in 1962 to kill Mossler with Mrs. Mossler nodding agreement to the proposition. Diehl testified for the state that Allen overheard at least part of the proposal.

Allen testified for the defense that he worked for the Mosslers as a handyman at their saddle horse ranch near Galveston, Tex., at the same time as Diehl.

"Did you ever hear a conversation in which Mr. Powers allegedly asked Mr. Diehl to kill Mr. Mossler," asked defense attorney, Marian Rosen.

"No, ma'am," Allen replied. Allen testified that Diehl came to the witness' home in Galveston recently — he was vague about the date — and told him:

"I'm in trouble. I done lied at the trial and you can help me if you want to."

"Did he want you to say that you had heard a conversation between Melvin Lane Powers and Edward Bart Diehl about killing Mr. Mossler?" Mrs. Rosen asked.

"Yes, ma'am," the witness replied. "He said something about five grand. I said I didn't know what five grand was."

Under cross-examination by the state, Allen was asked: "Did he ask you to say you overheard this conversation?"

"He didn't ask me to say it, he asked me did I hear it."

This produced the courtroom hassle. The state claimed being asked if he overheard a conversation was quite different from Allen's testifying that he was asked to say he overheard it.

The jury was sent from the courtroom and in the midst of the argument, Assistant State Atty. Arthur Huttoo remarked, "This witness told me outside the courtroom..."

The defense lawyers were on their feet before he could finish, roaring indignation that one of their witnesses had been questioned outside of court by the state.

Judge George Schulz angrily demanded order, then recessed court half an hour early to let tempers subside.

Since the trial began, the defense has argued that Mossler was a homosexual, and could have been slain by a pervert comrade.

Allen testified in the spring of 1962 he saw Mossler at the Texas ranch with three young men 22 or 23 years old, who "talked real loud and kind of fancy."

After saddling horses for them, Allen said he had to wait two hours for the group. The witness said he knocked at the door of the horse trailer where they were, and Mossler responded wearing "some kind of a shirt on top."

"And nothing from the waist down?" the witness was asked. "I didn't see anything," Allen replied.

"Do you know what they were doing inside?"

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Their Own Medicine
Dear Helen: Perhaps if everyone took action against these telephone sales pitches that annoy us so much, we could get them eliminated. For a long time I took them as one of life's trials. But then they started calling at night, and asking for my husband. This because any salesman knows a man is an easier mark (especially when he hasn't been conditioned by daytime calls). So then poor Jim would stand, nodding and listening politely, and like as not making a date for a sales representative to call on ME next day.

That tore it! Nowadays I interrupt the pitch to ask the name of the firm selling the product, and the telephone number. Then I hang up, call the firm immediately and announce that they have not only lost a customer for all time, but I'm influencing all my friends to shun them. And I make it a point to keep the secretary on the line as long a time as their salesman would have kept ME on. If enough of us did that maybe companies would realize how it feels to be constantly pestered.

It does no good to snap at the phone-person. She gets paid for the number of calls, and she doesn't report the disgruntled victims.

As for putting these people out of work (if we succeed in putting down phone selling), surely they can find something better to do than annoy others: — Getting Even.

Dear Helen: In making the list for wedding invitations, our daughter's fiancé disagrees with her on a touchy subject: she wants to invite their college friends (mostly broke and not able to give expensive gifts); he wants to invite family friends who are "in the chips." He says that's not practical, but also helpful — their college friends would be embarrassed at an invitation because they couldn't give much.

It will be a small wedding and reception so there isn't room for both, after all the relatives are invited, plus really close friends. (Less than 100 people).

This young man says, "Face it, the only reason you put on a wedding is for the loot, so why not cash in where the coins are heaviest?"

I swear if she hadn't already got her dress and made all the plans, I'd be wishing they'd break up. What do YOU think of a man like this Helen? — Parent

Dear Parent: We-e-e... he's honest enough to show his mercenary streak BEFORE marriage, and honest enough to admit what most people (including you) won't: an expensive wedding without "loot" would be a bust. And if this shocks you then why not add "No gifts please" to your invitations?

Naturally, a couple would invite closest friends, regardless of wealth, but the whole build-up on big (100 people make it big in my book) weddings shouts "Gimme!" and you can not get away from it.

Perhaps you shouldn't knock a fellow for trying to cash in on a bash he'd happily duck. Most men would rather skip the pomp and circumstance and make a quick trip to the minister instead. So maybe this stand of his is a protest. Ever think of that? — H.

Indians Serious About Politics

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — They take politics seriously in India, read seriously!

West Bengal Finance Minister Sailo Mukherjee was preparing to read his budget speech in the State Assembly in Calcutta Monday when an opposition member snatched it out of his hands. That did it.

State ministers siding with Mukherjee began chasing opposition member Kamal Ghua around the house. Ghua had protested the arrest of three members of his party.

The assembly had to be adjourned when still other opposition members tore up their speeches and threw them at Mukherjee.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Well done. That was the general feeling in town this week as the film industry received news of the 38th annual Academy Award nominations.

The oft-maligned Academy voters seem to have performed their function without fear or favor. They were not duped by massive trade-paper ad campaigns, nor did they display noticeable loyalty to big studios or oldtimers.

As in the 1964 nominations, there was a distinct British flavor. But the Academy voters can't help it if the British are such superior actors.

Gone are the days when the Oscar was a quaint local custom; the old boy is getting more international every year. The most remarkable evidence of this was the nomination of Japanese Hiroshi Teshigahara for his direction of "Woman in the Dunes," a film that didn't receive a major release.

Hollywood can be provincial about admitting achievements by foreign directors. Example: the Directors Guild didn't even nominate David Lean ("Doctor Zhivago") for its annual award. The Academy corrected the oversight.

The voters weren't swayed by production costs. Neither "The Greatest Story Ever Told" ($20 million), "The Great Race" ($12 million) nor "The Agony and the Ecstasy" ($8 million) received a major nomination. Curiously, each received five minor nominations.

Two of the best-picture nominees, "Darling" and "A Thousand Clowns," were in the neighborhood of million-dollar films, which is practically a poverty area in today's market. The other three are super-specials: "Doctor Zhivago," "The Sound of Music," "Ship of Fools."

Who will be the winners? At this point it looks like a two-way race in the major categories: two Julies as best actress — Andrews in "The Sound of Music" and Christie in "Darling"; Oskar Werner ("Ship of Fools") vs. Lee Marvin ("Cat Ballou"); "Doctor Zhivago" vs. "The Sound of Music."

But watch out for those dark horses.

Wichita's Win Over Bearcats Season's Upset

Wichita's home-court magic mesmerized the Cincinnati Bearcats for the fifth straight year and kept the Ohioans from winning the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship.

Wichita's 86-76 victory was one of the highlights of a busy Tuesday night in college basketball.

Wake Forest upset the nation's second-ranked Duke Blue Devils 99-98 in overtime, Michigan State climbed within one game of first-place Michigan in the Big Ten race by edging Illinois 68-66 and Southern Methodist whipped Texas A&M 82-65 to tie the Aggies for first place in the Southwest Conference.

Just like they did in 1962 when they broke a 27-game Cincinnati winning streak and again in 1963 when they shattered a 37-game Cincinnati winning streak, the Wheatshockers were supreme in the arena of the upset.

Wichita put it away with a nine-point spree in the last five minutes. Warren Armstrong, 6-foot-2 sophomore, led Wichita with 27 points and 18 rebounds to keep the Shockers alive in the MVC with a 7-4 record. Don Reeves, 29 points topped Cincinnati, now 9-4 in league play.

Wake Forest got three points in the last 13 seconds to tie Duke 90-90 in regulation time then beat the Blue Devils on Herb Leonard's eight points in the overtime.

Duke, ahead at one time by 15 points, led 93-90 when Paul Long made the first of two free-throw shots. He missed the second, but Paul Crumley tapped in the rebound to force the extra period.

Becky Lewis

The only senior on the Hope Ladycat basketball team, Miss Becky Lewis, made the all-district at DeQueen last Saturday night. She had played five years and lettered four, was co-captain of this year's team along with Brenda Underwood. Gordon beat Hope in the semi-finals.

Hot Shooting Puts Porkers Past Froggies

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' hot shooting set a school record and eased the Porkers' past Texas Christian University 91-77 in Southwest Conference basketball here Tuesday night.

Leading by as many as 24 points in the first half, the Razorbacks' shot up the net in the second half, hitting 21 of 27 shots from the field for a 77 per cent average.

For the game, the Arkansas average was 69 per cent, erasing a school record mark set against Baylor in the 1963-64 season.

Buckpasser Is Now the Favorite

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — With Graustark out of the way, Buckpasser was named as a favorite to win the Kentucky Stakes today, but big prep for the $100,000 running of the race at Hialeah.

Buckpasser, a 2-year-old in 1965, was a star performer, as his entry made against seven other Derby-age colts. In those two he had running together. Stupendous was the second choice in the betting.

Brauno Baeza, who was to have ridden Graustark, was aboard Stupendous. But, Spelmaker was a favorite to ride Buckpasser.

Bobcats Roar Past Malvern by 92-70 Tally

By LARRY DON WRIGHT
Hope Star Sports Writer

Sparked by the sensational scoring fete of Ronnie Ingram and a deadly fast break, the Hope Bobcats roared past the Malvern Leopards, 92-70, in a District 4AA make up match played in Jones Field House last night.

Ingram, a senior guard who stands only 5-foot-9, sacked up a total of 32 points. It is a new record for Bobcat individual scoring for the season. It also was the first time he was broken the 30-point barrier.

It was in addition an exceptional night for the team as a whole. They continued to execute the fast break effectively as they have for the past two weeks.

The first half was closely matched but the Bobcats had mounted a ten point lead by the end of the third quarter. Then in the final period the local cagers exploded to out distant the visitors by an additional 12 points.

The Cats were fast breaking on every opportunity and did so well. Coming off the boards with rebounds time after time all night long the big boys just heaved it over to someone a little further down the court and the Cats were off and running.

The Bobcats as well as Ingram set a new season scoring mark in the game by breaking the 90-point goal for the first time this season. The previous high was 81 points in a victory two week ends ago over Magnolia.

The first quarter put Hope ahead 19-16 and by halftime the Cats had a 39-33 lead with but Malvern was obviously weakening badly.

Behind Ingram in individual scoring came Dennis Ramsey 6 with 20, Bobby McGill with 16 and Eddie Aslin with 8. Stan Parris helped out with 7 followed by David Griffin who had 6, and Larry May who squeezed in 3.

The Cats out rebounded the Leopards 55-25 with Parris leading in this category with 15 rebounds.

3 Advance in Dist. 3 Play at Yerger

By CALVIN MULBROW
The first round of the District 3 Tournament took place in Harris gymnasium last night with Prescott downing Blevins 62-56. Rosston clobbered Okolona 85-57 and Malvern forfeited their game to Yerger.

Prescott, in the first game, was victorious over Blevins, 62-56 putting them out of the running.

Blevins was in the whole from the start. Prescott ran out with a ten point lead in the first period 14-3. Blevins, being in the dump, clamped down on their defense. Turner began to make Yung and Damsby eat the ball when they went up for their jump shots. This effort proved to be effective for them. The score at the end of the period was 14-3 but Blevins got within 2 points of Prescott in the third period.

Turner was making shots 20 feet out and Pugh was up for the rebounds, and when time ran out in the 3rd period the score was 54-56.

Blevins was a little anxious in the fourth period and started foul. Prescott, taking advantage of this, made every shot count to win 62-56 over Blevins.

Rosston, in the second game, defeated Okolona 85-57. Rosston playing a man to man defense and shooting from the outside, beat at the end of the first period 24-5.

Okolona was fouling and Rosston and several points from the free throw line. Hole, one of Okolona's first string players, fouled out in the first period. Then Yallam, Okolona's towering player, began to score and marked his team mates to come out in the 2nd period. The final score was 85-57.

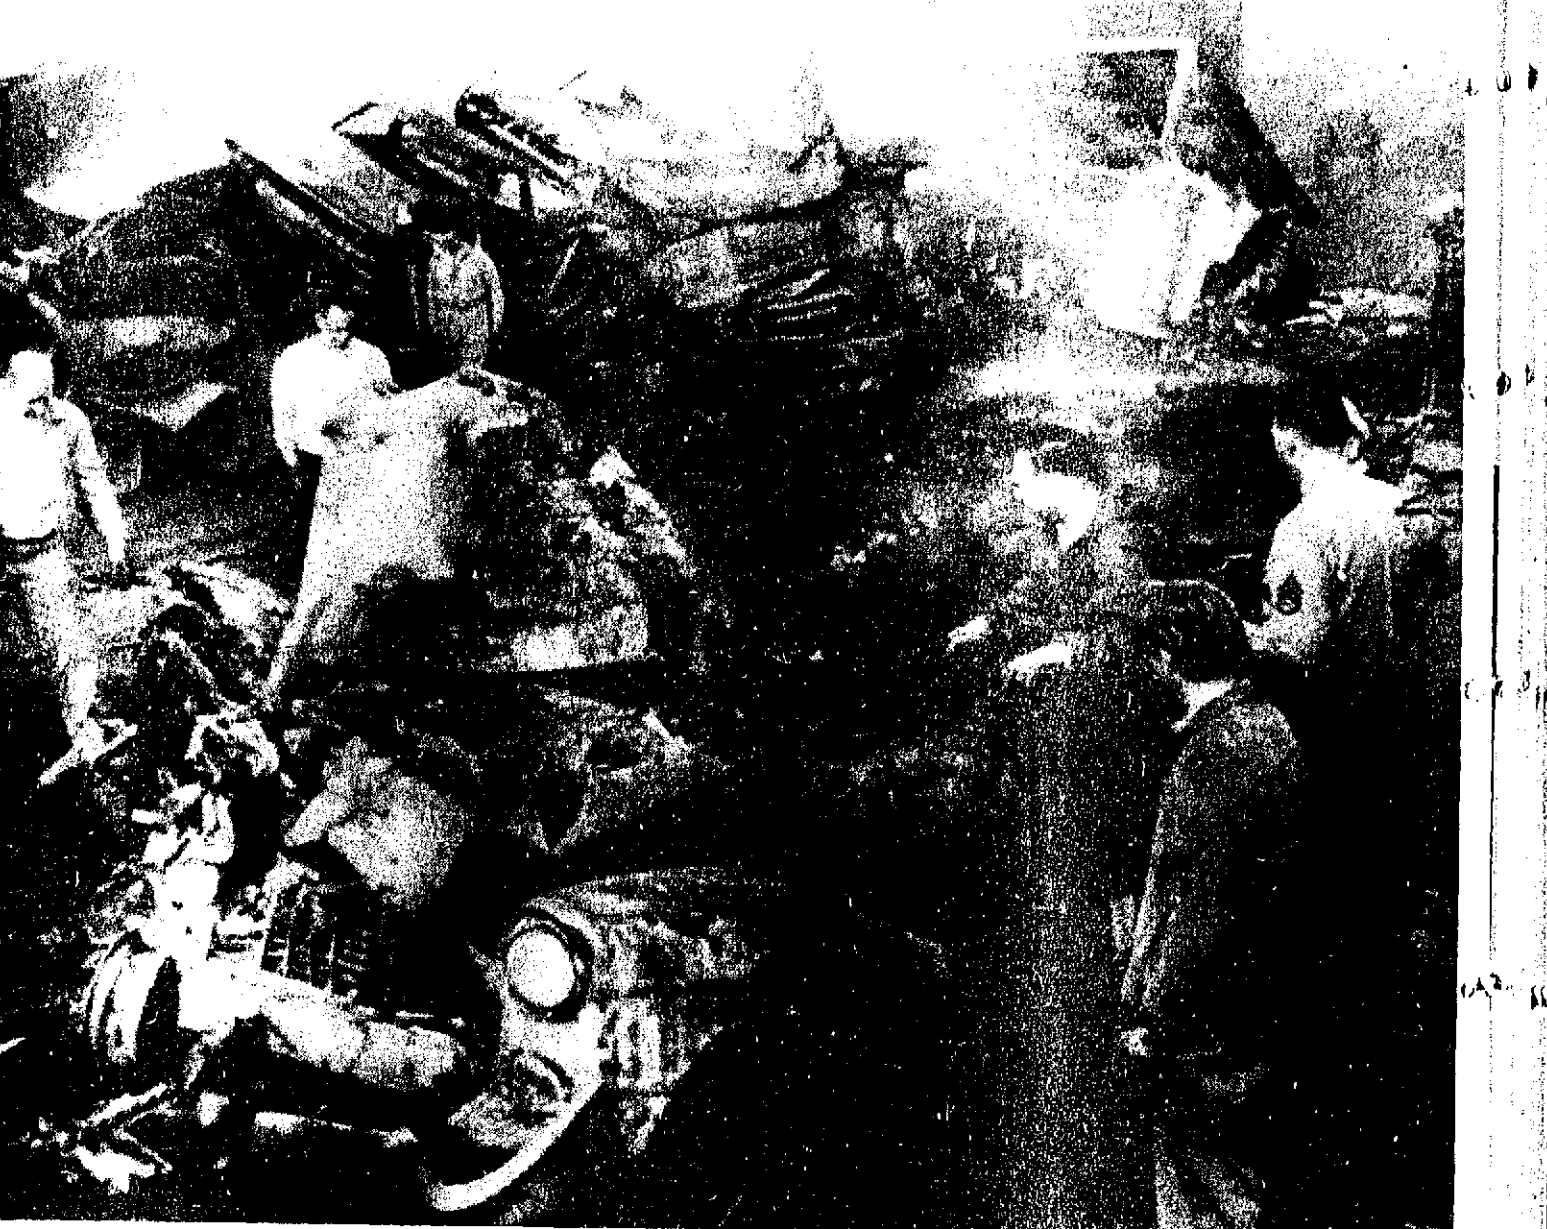

High scoring players: Prescott, Damsby 15 points and Yung 14 points; Blevins 14 points and Turner 13 points; Rosston 25 points; Okolona 20 points; Malvern 14 points.

U.S. Skaters Face Uphill Battle

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP) — America's top two male skaters faced an uphill battle today as compulsory competition continued in the World Figure Skating Championships.

Austria's Emmerich Danzer took the early lead with 332.3 points in the first of six compulsory figures Monday. Americans Gary Scott and Scott Allen trailed the Austrian with Visconti happy over his showing and Allen disappointed.

Visconti, a Detroit college student who was tied for second after the opening figures, said, "The ice was beautiful today. I am happy."

Allen, from Spoken River, N.J., optimistic over his chances before compulsory figures, said he was surprised when his marks were announced. He had 309.2 points while Visconti and Austria's Wolfgang Schwarz shared second place with 297.5.

The points are based on a complicated combination of grades awarded to a panel of nine judges.

Two Russian skaters led the pairs competition after completion of the compulsory figures. Ludmila Beagova and Oleg Protopopov led the pair with Tatiana Zhuk and Alexander Gorelik second.

Mays Could Ran Away from Mistakes Even When He Copied DiMaggio's Stance

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

There was a time when Willie Mays was so fast he could run away from his mistakes. He played a shallow center field, maybe too shallow, yet he could go back for a ball hit 150 feet over his head and make the catch laughing.

Like the time in the first 1954 World Series game in the Polo Grounds. Vic Wertz had made three straight hits and with two runners on, Leo Durocher made his move. He replaced Sal Maglie with Don Liddle. Liddle sure fooled Wertz.

All Vic did was drill the ball 450 feet on a line to center field. Mays turned, sprinted to the foot of the Giant steps next to bleachers, put his glove up and with his back to the plate pulled in Wertz's bid. The ball was hit so hard that Larry Doby went from second to third and Durocher ran to the mound to welcome a third pitcher.

In those days people were comparing Mays with Mickey Mantle and Duke Snider. There are no comparisons now. Mays stands alone and hopes to go on for another five or six years. Reminded of the play, Willie burst forth with a big "Say Hey" smile, but quickly backed off on comparisons, even as to the age when ball players retire.

When Willie hit 52 homers last year at age 34 it was his high mark. Since 1954 he has averaged 40 homers a year. He hits one homer every 15 at bats. Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew busts one every 12 trips and Mantle booms it out once in 14

A GOOD WOOD MAN: Willie Mays, the National League's most valuable player, is shown with wooden implements for sports other than baseball. He leads active major leaguers with 505 home runs. He has averaged 46 homers for the last four years.

at bats. "I don't care about that," Mays began. "I don't try for homers. Last year I tried for only one home run all season—in Houston. They had us down three runs in the ninth. We got one run and I kept saying to Jay Alou 'get me up, get me up.' "I was fifth man up in the inning. I hit one with one on and it tied the score. We won it in the tenth."

How far did the homer go? "I'm not interested in distance," replied Mays. "We don't carry the tape measure. Anytime a guy can hit 40 a season that is a pretty good total. (Willie blushed when he realized that's how many he averages a year). And anyone who hits 30 is a good guy to have on your club. "I'd rather hit 'em consistently than hit 'em for distance."

In Willie's "above 30 years" he seems to be getting better. He has led the National League three times in the last four years while averaging 46 homers a season. It's easy to see why Herman Franks carried on Al Dark's idea to make Willie team captain.

"There's a lot of pressure moving players around (he moves outfielders and infielders because he has great instinct) and the fellows look to me," says Mays. "I know I'm getting older. I have to play according to my body. Herman says 'tell me when you want a rest.' So I tell him but some pitchers come to me just before the game and ask me to play. So I play. It's a team game."

"I was hurt last summer. I played the All-Star game hurting. I had a collision with Pat Corrales at home plate. I couldn't pivot on my swing. I went 0 for 18. I wasn't even going to the All-Star game. But I had to play. I want to play in it. That game means so much, with the pension and all."

Mays admits now that only once in his career did he try to pattern himself after another player. "I think it's a mistake for anyone to copy another player," says Willie. "I tried once—Joe DiMaggio. I found out I couldn't do it. He's 6-foot-3. He has a wide stance. He has a picture swing. I don't. I just swing."

Mele Still Points to Allison's Catch

Well, Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers picks Jim Gilliam's great stop on a Zolito Versalles smash as the big play in the seventh and final game of the 1965 World Series. I'll go along with that.

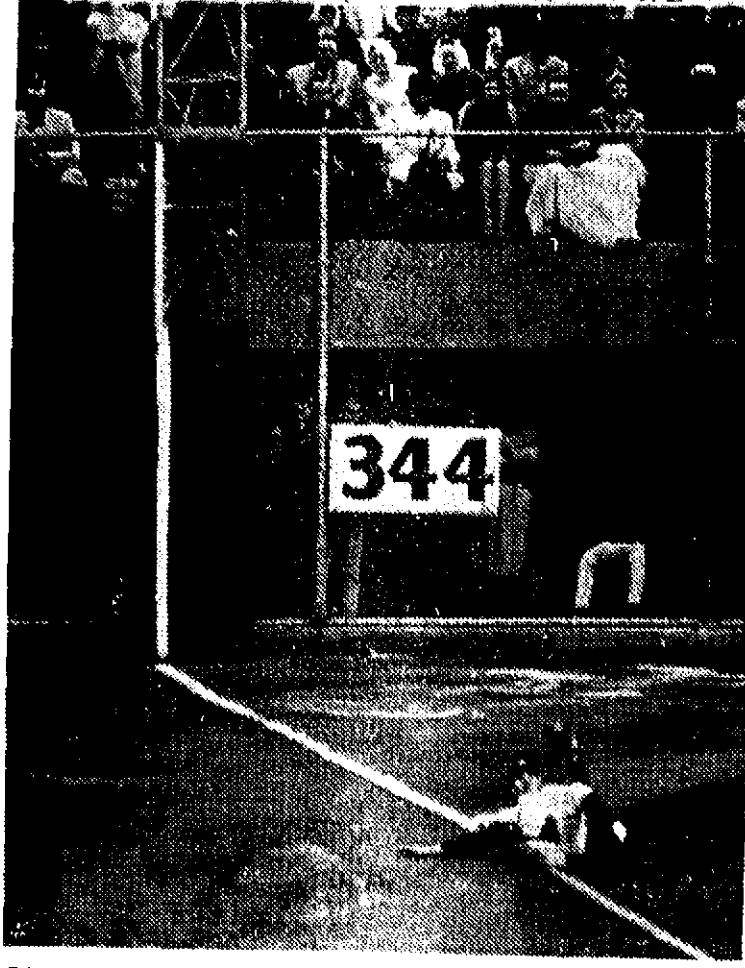

If the ball goes through their third baseman we surely would have scored one run, maybe two and had a good rally going. But who knows what might have been.

However, while Gilliam's stop seemed to break up our attack and helped Sandy Koufax shut us out, the Twins came up with a big play in the fifth inning of the second game in Municipal Stadium.

Jim Kaat, our fine southpaw, had a no-hit game until the start of the fifth inning when Ron Fairly (Dodger right fielder) singled to right.

Jim Lefebvre, their rookie second baseman, sliced a sinking line drive to left field. Allison ran over toward the line

Alston Raves About Gilliam Stop in Final Series Game

By WALTER ALSTON

Manager, Los Angeles Dodgers

When you win a pennant and World Series there are a lot of plays which fit through your mind. Oliva and Harmon memory—and your nightmare—during the off season. And there are many I'll never forget. The first he had walked plays which fit through your mind. Oliva and Harmon memory—and your nightmare—during the off season. And there are many I'll never forget.

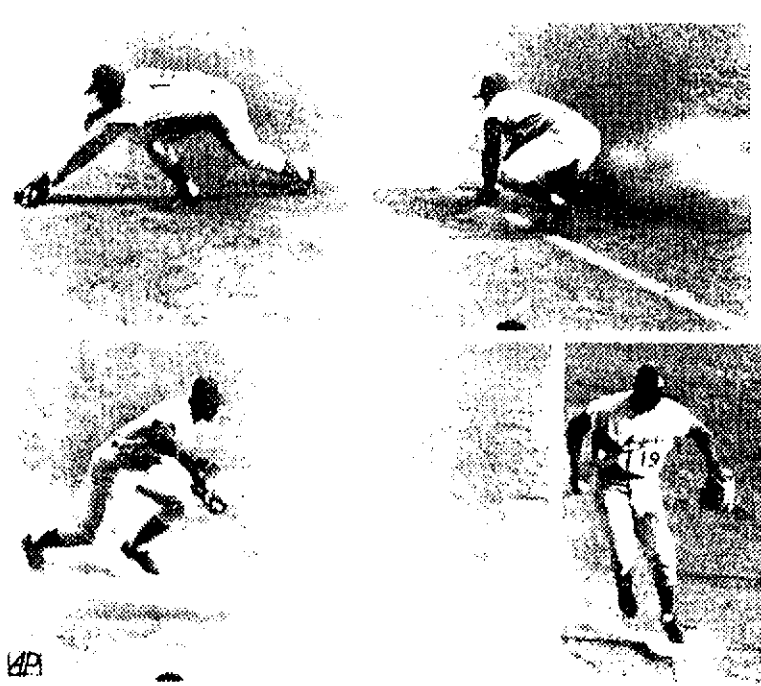

But the play which has to be the biggest of the year, well, it's the World Series, anyway. And he that great stop by Jim Gilliam—made in the fifth inning of the final game with the Twins.

Let's set the stage: We had scored two runs in the bottom of the fifth. Versalles rocketed the ball over third base. They don't hit the ball much harder than this one. Fortunately Gilliam was guarding the line against any-thing down the line. He stabbed, yet came up with the ball, leaped to third base for the second out.

They didn't need much help. The rest of the way. That play broke the Twins' offensive back. In the last four innings, Sandy Koufax pitched. Only one man reached first and that was in the fourth when Killebrew singled. That's a letter from Lou Piniella, director of the major league's motion picture department. Seems he had a way of making the play by counting the

Quarter Horses Do All Right

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M., (AP)—Horses are making more money than people these days.

The eighth annual A.H.A. American Futurity for 2-year-old quarter horses is almost certain to be a $500,000 race this year. And the quarter horses don't even run a quarter of a mile. They sprint 400 yards. Last year the richest race ever run hit a record $410,000, with Savannah Jr. taking down Ruidoso.

Ruidoso officials list 100 nominees still eligible for the race to be run next Labor Day (Sept. 5). At this time only 174 were eligible.

Owners of eligibles will win another $350 on March 14. They already have put up $175,000 more payments of $750 each will be made before the race Trials in late August.

Derby Fever Will Never Hit John Olin

Sportsman Is Against Rushing Young Horses Over a Distance

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

When a man spends $140,000 for a yearling filly or $130,000 for a yearling colt immediately present is the burning desire to race his prize soon and often to regain some initial cost.

John Merrill Olin, industrialist-sportsman from Alton, Ill., refuses to operate along this "get it back quick" reasoning. When Olin gets something special it carries an imaginary "Fragile, Handle With Care" tag.

Olin also has shown exceptional patience and much affection with dogs, especially Labrador retrievers. He owned and slept with King Buck, the great two-time National field trial champion of 1952-53. And last fall Martens Little Smoky gave him a third-national at Smyrna, Del.

Right now he's hooked on horses. At last June's Keeneland, Ky., sales, John M. Olin thought the best yearling was a daughter by Turn-to-Cosmah. She cost $140,000 and he aptly named her Royal Match. She is all of that. Cosmah foaled Tosmah, 1964 filly champion at 3. That was enough for Olin even though Harry F. Guggenheim's Turn-to was a fine runner before going wrong.

In 1964, Olin picked up a son of Swaps-Cosmah for $75,000. The chestnut colt resembled sire Swaps and became Fathers Image. The latter was not rushed to the post, and the same

TOP BUYER AND BREEDER: Industrialist-sportsman John M. Olin, left, has spent a small fortune on yearling thoroughbreds in recent years. And the smiling fellow is John R. Gaines, Kentucky breeder who knows Olin as his best customer.

"I believe a broodmare is more important than the stallion and Gaines has the outstanding broodmares."

Olin is one of the many Swaps boosters which includes John W. Galbreath, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Swaps beat favored Nashua and Summer Tan in the 1955 Kentucky Derby and in 1956 was acclaimed horse of the year.

Some point to Olin's Fathers Image as a bust simply because he failed to win a stake last year. Despite bad racing luck the Image won himself out. In six races he earned $120,408. And just before he ran sixth in the Garden State, Fathers Image brought Olin one third of a $1 million syndicate. Some bust,

Olin is one millionaire who isn't too keen on winning the Kentucky Derby. He believes one mile and a quarter in May is tough on a 3-year-old.

Fathers Image, trained by the successful Arnold Winick, did show exceptional class in four stakes. When champion Buckpasser was at peak form last September with seven straight wins, Fathers Image may have softened him up in the Chicago Futurity. The Image came on strongly and Buckpasser beat him by less than a half length.

Two weeks later the filly Priceless Gem beat Buckpasser in the Aqueduct Futurity.

"Fathers Image was lightly raced at the time," says Olin rather proudly. "It was his third start. Had he won, Buckpasser would have had no excuse."

"I believe in a light schedule for 2-year-olds and I'm also opposed to rushing a 3-year-old in his second season of racing. When you think you have something special why gamble with a valuable horse? Look how many young ones have broken down in recent years."

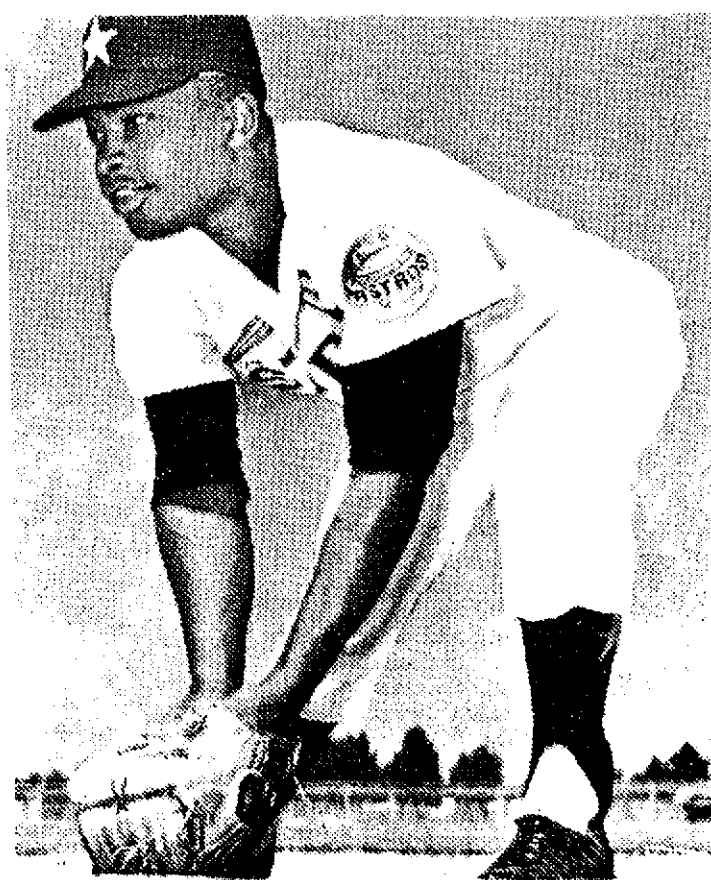

"We take X-rays of our young horses' knees and ankles every three months. That's where most of the trouble develops and it comes early in their careers."

So while Ogden Phipps' Buckpasser and John Galbreath's Graustark point for an early vic-like grip on the 3-year-old situation with likely starts in the Flamingo at Hialeah (March 3) and the Florida Derby at Gulfstream, the patience of John M. Olin could again pay off handsomely.

He is well aware that the Preakness and Belmont follow the Derby. And he just might have the winner.

THREE FOR THE MONEY—The best starting pitching staff in baseball last season belonged to the Los Angeles Dodgers. From left, Don Drysdale, Sandy Koufax and Claude Osteen. Between them they won 64 games.

Too Early to Judge, Wilson Says

By JOHN WEYLAND

MOSCOW (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today it is too early to judge whether there has been progress on world issues in his talks with Soviet leaders.

British informants said Tuesday they saw signs of Soviet willingness to support Wilson's call for keeping the Middle East peaceful and end the Viet Nam war.

Wilson met again today with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and was scheduled to have talks with Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev. His meeting with Brezhnev had not been on the program and was arranged during the night, British sources said.

Wilson also was to call today on former Soviet President Anastas I. Mikoyan.

The British prime minister said he had continued discussions of world problems with Kosygin during the intervals of a ballet performance Tuesday night in the Bolshoi Theater.

"I talked again on these issues with the premier then and that will lead to further exploration of them today," he said.

The prime minister told newsmen on his arrival in Moscow Monday that no big breakthroughs were to be expected from his three-day visit.

Space Dogs Sent Up by Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet scientists have launched two dogs into orbit in an experiment apparently aimed at taking man farther and longer into space.

An official announcement said the dogs were lofted Tuesday aboard the satellite Cosmos 110. It said the animals, named Velociterok — Breeze — and Ugolyok — Little Coal-Nut — were orbiting the earth every 96 minutes.

18 seconds.
The Soviet News agency Tass said the farthest point of their orbit is more than 500 miles from the earth.

This is the point where radiation may be dangerous to living organisms. They may be trying out protective garb for deep space travel.

Western scientists believe that if their journey is successful it will be followed by a new Soviet space spectacular.

It could be an attempt to put a satellite, probably carrying more dogs, around the moon. Or it could be a try at landing dogs on the moon to test conditions for sending humans there.

More likely, these scientists believe, would be an attempt to orbit a large space laboratory around the earth.

It is known that Soviet cosmonauts for some time have been trying to simulate conditions which would occur in an eight-man spaceship designed to stay aloft for considerable periods—perhaps several months.

Trained dogs have pioneered the space trail for men in the Soviet program.

State Negro Teachers Ask Aid Be Held

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Arkansas Teachers Association, a Negro organization, has asked the U. S. Office of Education to "consider withholding all federal funds" from districts which have separate pay schedules for Negro and white teachers.

This was reported Tuesday by the Southern Education Reporting Service.

The Arkansas group cited the Brickeys School District and said it paid white teachers an average annual salary of $3,610, while Negroes averaged $3,387.

Protests of Youngsters Have Negative Aims

The present militant left movements of youngsters in many of the institutions of higher learning and those who are drop-outs or too lazy to do anything worthwhile are not likely to create much harm. In any large group of college boys and girls there are a few who want to challenge generally accepted laws, social customs, dress fashions. This may come from some type of frustration, desire for attention, imaginary courage, or the lack of ever having realized that society must have order, not chaos, to be enjoyable.

It so happens that now there are many issues they may oppose or support. Some of the differences can easily lead to shedding blood or sacrificing lives. In calmer times it resulted in loss of standing among those of better brains, more orderly development and higher ambition. If these youngsters have any ambition it is of the negative and not the positive quality. They want to tear others down and pay little attention to building themselves up. Edmund Burke, the eminent British statesman of American Revolutionary time, expressed it this way:

"God has implanted in man a sense of ambition, and a satisfaction arising from the contemplation of his excelling his fellows in something deemed valuable among them. It is this passion that drives men to all the ways we see in use of signaling themselves, and that tends to make whatever excites in a man the idea of this distinction so pleasant. It has been so strong as to make miserable men take comfort that they were supreme in misery; where we can not distinguish ourselves by something excellent, we take complacency in some singular infirmity, folly or defect."

Most of these young people, we presume, find pleasure in fighting those able to distinguish themselves in the society of the present. They find satisfaction in opposing the government, the economy of the country, religious beliefs of others, and in many other forms of imaginary wrongs. They read about the untouchables of India and at once imagine there are untouchables in this country. They read about revolutions in history and imagine such outbreaks as Castro brought about in Cuba and the drive of the Communists to take over South Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic are worthwhile. They are not able to see the difference between a revolution for tyranny and a revolution for freedom.

It appears to us that the lack of ambition for individual success, whether it is growing food, practicing the skilled trades, competing in the fine arts, finance, commerce, industry or whatever is considered a measure of success, is back of much of the wasted time so many of these sloppy looking leftists endure. One of the strange angles of their thinking, if theirs may be called thinking, is that they can help anybody by destroying property and the efforts of those who would lead in progress.

We have watched through our reading the careers of many of these malcontents for several decades. Some of them eventually realized they had been wrong in their thinking and turned into decent and serviceable citizens. Others dropped from notice on account of their failure. Some ended up as criminals. We do not want a static society. Changes are essential. But the changes that are beneficial come from orderly thinking, not disturbed, distracted minds. — The Ada (Okla.) WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Forty-five male guests Sunday night rose in their seats at a special dinner in Parliament House and toasted the sole lady present — Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey.

Prime Minister Keith J. Holyoake proposed a special toast saying that to his best of his knowledge it was Mrs. Humphrey's 43rd birthday. (It was her 54th.)

The gentlemen then sang "Happy birthday, dear Muriel" and Vice President Humphrey commented to his wife, "You are spoiled."

Builders of Roads Hear of Proposal

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Men who build highways across the nation listen today to views of the country's No. 1 exponent on beautifying outdoor surroundings — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The First Lady was to address a luncheon meeting at the 64th annual convention of the American Road Builders Association, the final day of meetings that opened Sunday.

association are here for the convention.

The theme of saving trees and other natural beauty in building roads was stressed by Rex M. Whitton, federal highway administrator in the Bureau of Public Roads.

"The basic foundation starts with the location of the road, followed by its design to make the best use of natural features around it," Whitton said in an address to the association.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., chairman of the Senate Public Roads subcommittee and Rep. George H. Fallon, D-Md., chairman of the House Public Works Committee, both discussed the highway beautification act of 1965.

Copter Developer Man of the Year

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Jerome Robb, a 52-year-old osteopath, wants to go back to Viet Nam after spending last summer there at his own expense.

A spokesman for the Michigan State Jaycees said in Pontiac Monday that a drive has been launched to raise enough money for Robb's airplane fare and for hospital supplies to treat 1,500 patients.

Robb, who says he'll donate $5,000 of his own, distributed medical supplies in Viet Nam during a six-week visit to the country last year.

Flaring Feud Settled by Kennedy, LBJ

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the Johnson administration have moved closer on Viet Nam policy but the peace pact may be shaky because of remaining differences.

Out of a round of White House and senatorial activity Tuesday there emerged Kennedy's stated belief at a news conference that there are no differences between his and President Johnson's views on these issues.

—He does not advocate but does not believe the door should be shut to the admission of Communists to an interim government — even before elections are held — if peace negotiators feel this is necessary.

—If elections are held, the United States should abide by the outcome, even if it puts Communists into a permanent government.

Kennedy, a New York Democrat, said he had discussed his stand with White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers and they agreed there were no fundamental differences in the position of the senator and the President.

"I find no disagreement between what Mr. Moyers has said at I have said," Kennedy stated.

This patching up procedure seemed unlikely, however, to have much effect on the torrid criticism other senatorial critics have directed against Johnson. And Kennedy indicated he, too, has some further matters to discuss where his views may cross White House policy.

The Senate goes back to work today on a $4.8-billion authorization bill covering part of the $12.3 billion in emergency military funds asked for Viet Nam. Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he would call on his colleagues to end the policy debate and get to voting.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, called his group together to decide whether to act now or continue testimony on the $415-million economic aid bill for South Viet Nam.

The Kennedy-Moyers pact did not appear to rest on entirely solid ground. Moyers had told a news conference there were no differences "if Sen. Kennedy did not propose a coalition government with Communist participation before elections are held."

Snow Blankets State, Highways Are Hazardous

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most Arkansians awoke this morning to find snow on the ground, many schools closed and most highways in the state extremely hazardous.

Capt. Bill Miller of the State Police said, "It is slicker than it has been before in the Little Rock area especially. This snow seems like a wetter snow than the previous ones."

Miller said he urged motorists to use either snow tires or chains if they had to travel anywhere today.

The snowstorm struck at the central and southern portions of the state mostly dumping three inches on Little Rock and Texarkana by dawn today and two inches on Jonesboro.

Snow still covered most of the northern sections of the state following Monday's snow which blanketed that area with four to eight inches.

Minimum temperatures in the state last night were either at or below the freezing point, ranging from 25 degrees at Harrison to 32 degrees at Memphis.

Most of the schools in the central portion of the state announced today that they would close for the day.

All city schools in Little Rock and North Little Rock were closed, along with Little Rock University. Many private schools and all public and Catholic schools in the county. Most schools in the Jonesboro area also closed.

A wind-blown snow storm left a covering up to more than 10 inches in the central part of Texas today and the belt of precipitation extended deep into some Southern areas.

Two inches of snow hit Del Rio, on the Mexican border, and three inches covered nearby sunny San Antonio. Heaviest amounts were 10 inches and more at Mercury, in the central region. Hazardous driving warnings were issued. Austin reported six inches of snow. Public and parochial schools were closed and classes were suspended at least until noon for 26,000 students at the University of Texas.

Freezing temperatures chilled many sections of Texas except most of the immediate coastal areas. The mercury dropped to 28 at San Antonio and Austin and 16 at Lubbock, which had no snow.

Highways were closed Tuesday night in much of the San Antonio area and school authorities planned to close schools today in San Antonio. Several schools were closed Tuesday in central Texas from the Big Bend country to the Red River Valley.

The snow spread eastward and accumulations in Arkansas ranged from two to eight inches. The wet belt was expected to spread into areas in the middle Mississippi Valley.

371 Cong Are Killed in Big Bombardment

By THOMAS A. REEDY

Saigon, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. military command reported today at least 371 Communists killed after 24 hours of intensive bombardment by planes, artillery and 7th Fleet destroyers.

Four strikes by U.S. Air Force F100 Super Sabres caught two companies of Viet Cong in the open near Phan Thiet, on the coast 100 miles east of Saigon, and killed 110 Reds, spokesmen said. The jets swooped down on the Communists to aid government troops tied up in heavy fighting with the Viet Cong.

As explosives rained down on the Communists with new fury, Allied spokesmen reported that the number of Reds killed last week doubled while American and South Vietnamese casualties declined.

A U.S. spokesman reported 33 Americans killed, 354 wounded and 4 missing compared with 91 killed, 423 wound and 5 missing in the previous week. Government losses dropped from 249 killed and 105 missing to 197 killed and 77 missing.

The claimed enemy toll rose to 1,357 killed, the second highest toll of the year, and 122 captured last week. In the previous week, 684 Reds were reported killed.

The air war continued against North Viet Nam Tuesday. Seven missions by Air Force F105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers blasted buildings, roads and storage areas between the 17th Parallel frontier and the coastal city of Vinh and around the old French fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Navy carrier jets flew 15 missions against bridges, roads and ferry points around Dong Ap and Dong Hoi, south of Vinh.

Air Force B52s edged closer to the Communist North this morning, unloading their massive explosives on suspected Viet Cong targets in Thua Thien Province 45 miles south of the 17th Parallel. The bombers roared in to support a government operation in the area that has netted 25 Communists killed since Monday, a government spokesman said.

Saturn Shot May Be Made on Thursday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Weather experts studied cloud patterns today, hoping for a break that would enable the space agency to re-schedule the first launching of an unmanned Apollo moonship for Thursday.

A Saturn IB, most powerful rocket ever built by the United States, was to have boosted the Apollo into space today. But the shot was postponed Tuesday night when weathermen forecast heavy clouds, wind and rain in the Cape Kennedy area.

Meteorologists planned to meet at 4:30 p.m. to determine if conditions might be acceptable for a launching at 7:45 a.m. Thursday.

The Delta which is to launch the satellite, named ESSA 2 is a proven rocket which can be fired in a rain storm if necessary because it does not require the photographic coverage needed for a new booster like the Saturn IB.

If something should go wrong with the IB, the camera record could help pinpoint the trouble.

The ESSA 2 firing, scheduled for 8:58 a.m., would be shifted back to Friday if the Saturn-Apollo shot goes Thursday.

The Saturn IB is to lift the Apollo 310 miles into space and ram it back through the atmosphere at 18,000 miles an hour to determine how well it withstands blazing re-entry heat.
